Explicación · Explanation

Lee cada recuadro despacio. Primero en español, luego en inglés. Read each box slowly: first in Spanish, then in English.

¿Qué es? · What is it?

Los dos tiempos hablan del pasado, pero miran de forma distinta. La pregunta clave es: ¿el periodo de tiempo ha terminado? Si hablamos de un momento terminado y concreto (ayer, en 2019, hace dos días) → past simple. Si el periodo sigue abierto (hoy, esta semana, mi vida) o no decimos cuándo porque importa el hecho o el resultado → present perfect.

Finished time (yesterday, in 2019, ago) → past simple. Unfinished time (today, this week) or no time given → present perfect.

Past simple + tiempo terminado: yesterday / last week / ago

Present perfect + tiempo abierto o sin fecha: today / this week / ever

Las palabras clave · Key time expressions

Past simple	Español	Present perfect	Español
yesterday	ayer	today	hoy
last night / week / year	anoche / la semana pasada / el año pasado	this week / month / year	esta semana / este mes / este año

PERFECT o PAST

Present perfect vs past simple · ¿he ido o fui?

📖 Explicación · Explanation | Nivel B1

1 · PAST SIMPLE: tiempo terminado · Past simple: finished time

Usamos el past simple cuando la acción ocurrió en un momento terminado y sabemos o decimos cuándo: yesterday, last week, in 2019, two days ago, when I was ten. También para contar historias (una acción detrás de otra) y para etapas cerradas o personas que ya han muerto.

Finished time, and we say or know when. Also for stories and finished periods of life.

Sujeto + verbo en pasado + … + yesterday / last… / ago

✈️ I went to Lisbon last summer.
→ Fui a Lisboa el verano pasado.

💑 We met three years ago.
→ Nos conocimos hace tres años.

📺 Did you watch the match last night?
→ ¿Viste el partido anoche?

2 · PRESENT PERFECT: tiempo abierto o sin fecha · Present perfect: unfinished time or no time

Usamos el present perfect cuando el periodo todavía no ha terminado (today, this week, this year, so far) o cuando no decimos cuándo porque lo importante es el hecho o su resultado ahora: experiencias (ever, never), noticias y cambios recientes.

Unfinished time (today, this week) or no time given: experiences, news, results now.

Sujeto + have / has + participio + … + today / this week / ever

☕ I've drunk three coffees today.
→ Hoy me he tomado tres cafés.

🗺️ She's visited six countries this year.
→ Este año ha visitado seis países.

🍀 Have you ever been to Ireland?
→ ¿Has estado alguna vez en Irlanda?

El español te puede engañar · Spanish can trick you

Español	Inglés	¿Por qué?
Hoy he ido al gimnasio.	I've been to the gym today.	hoy = abierto
Este año he viajado mucho.	I've travelled a lot this year.	este año sigue
El año pasado viajé mucho.	I travelled a lot last year.	terminó
¿Cuándo has llegado?	When did you arrive?	When → pasado

THIS MORNING, TODAY…: ¡depende! · this morning, today…: it depends!

Con this morning, this afternoon o today, pregúntate: ¿ese periodo ya ha terminado cuando hablo? Si todavía es por la mañana → present perfect. Si la mañana ya pasó → past simple.

Is the period still open when you speak? Yes → present perfect. No → past simple.

☀️ Son las 11:00
- I've had two coffees this morning.
- Have you seen Ana this morning?

🌙 Son las 20:00
- I had two coffees this morning.
- Did you see Ana this morning?

3 · Noticias y preguntas de seguimiento · News and follow-up questions

Para dar una noticia usamos el present perfect: lo importante es que ha pasado, no cuándo. Pero en cuanto damos o pedimos detalles (cuándo, dónde, cómo, por qué) pasamos al past simple, porque ya hablamos de un momento concreto.

Give the news with the present perfect. Give or ask for details with the past simple.

Noticia + present perfect

Detalles + past simple

I've passed my driving test! — Well done! When did you take it?
→ ¡He aprobado el carné! — ¡Bien! ¿Cuándo te examinaste?

Lucía has had her baby! — Lovely! Was it a boy or a girl?
→ ¡Lucía ha tenido el bebé! — ¡Qué bien! ¿Fue niño o niña?

There's been an accident on the motorway. It happened at 7 a.m.
→ Ha habido un accidente en la autopista. Ocurrió a las 7.

Truco de la caja · The box trick

Imagina el tiempo como una caja 📦. ¿Está cerrada (yesterday, 2019, last week, when I was ten)? → past simple. ¿Está abierta (today, this year, my life, ever)? → present perfect. Y si preguntas When…?, ¡la caja ya está cerrada!

Closed box (yesterday, 2019) → past simple. Open box (today, this year, ever) → present perfect. When…? → closed box.

4 · WHEN, WHAT TIME y AGO · when, what time and ago

Las preguntas con When…? y What time…? piden un momento concreto, así que van siempre en past simple, aunque en español digamos «¿Cuándo has llegado?». Lo mismo con ago («hace»). En cambio, la duración que continúa (How long…? for / since) va en present perfect.

When…?, What time…? and ago always take the past simple.

When / What time + did + sujeto + verbo…?

… + periodo + ago

When did you arrive? (not: When have you arrived?)
→ ¿Cuándo has llegado? / ¿Cuándo llegaste?

What time did the film start?
→ ¿A qué hora empezó la peli?

I bought these trainers two weeks ago.
→ Me compré estas zapatillas hace dos semanas.

Mismo hecho, distinto tiempo · Same event, different tense

La misma acción puede ir en los dos tiempos. Lo que cambia es lo que importa: el resultado o la experiencia (present perfect) o el momento concreto ya cerrado (past simple).

Result or experience now → present perfect. A finished moment → past simple.

Present perfect

- I've lost my phone. (No lo tengo.)
