- (El hombre que te llamó es mi jefe.)

2 WHICH → cosas y animales

El relativo ya sustituye a it: no lo repitas

Explicación · Explanation

Lee cada recuadro despacio. Primero en español, luego en inglés. Read each box slowly: first in Spanish, then in English.

¿Qué es? · What is it?

Una relative clause (oración de relativo) es un trozo de frase que da información sobre un sustantivo para dejar claro de quién o de qué hablamos. Empieza por un pronombre relativo: who, which, that, where, whose. En español casi todo es «que»; en inglés hay que elegir según sea persona, cosa, lugar o posesión. Aquí vemos las defining relative clauses (especificativas): sin ellas la frase no se entiende bien, y no llevan comas.

A relative clause gives information about a noun to make clear who or what we mean. It starts with who, which, that, where or whose. Defining relative clauses have no commas.

sustantivo + who / which / that / where / whose + información

1 · WHO: personas · who for people

Who se usa para personas. Puede ser el sujeto (the man who lives here) o el objeto (the man who I met). Truco: si en español puedes decir «la persona que…», usa who.

Use who for people.

persona + who + …

The woman who lives next door is a nurse.
→ La mujer que vive al lado es enfermera.

I've got a friend who speaks five languages.
→ Tengo un amigo que habla cinco idiomas.

Who's the actor who plays the doctor in that series?
→ ¿Quién es el actor que hace de médico en esa serie?

Resumen · Summary

RELATIVE CLAUSES

Relative clauses · who, which, that, where, whose

📖 Explicación · Explanation | Nivel B1

2 · WHICH: cosas y animales · which for things and animals

🇪🇸 Which se usa para cosas, animales e ideas. ¡Nunca para personas! Ojo: aquí which no es una pregunta («¿cuál?»); significa «que / el cual».

🇬🇧 Use which for things, animals and ideas, never for people.

cosa / animal + which + …

💻 This is the laptop which I bought last week.
→ Este es el portátil que compré la semana pasada.

🐕 We've got a dog which hates cats.
→ Tenemos un perro que odia a los gatos.

🚆 The train which goes to Bilbao leaves at eight.
→ El tren que va a Bilbao sale a las ocho.

3 · THAT: el comodín · that for people and things

🇪🇸 That puede sustituir a who y a which en las defining relative clauses. Es muy frecuente al hablar. Después de something, anything, everything, nothing, all y de superlativos (the best film that…) se prefiere that. ¡Y nunca ~~what~~ detrás de un sustantivo!

🇬🇧 That can replace who or which. It's preferred after everything, something, nothing, all and superlatives.

persona / cosa + that + …

🍿 The film that we saw last night was amazing.
→ La peli que vimos anoche fue increíble.

🏫 She's the teacher that helped me with my project.
→ Es la profesora que me ayudó con mi proyecto.

🛒 Is there anything that you need?
→ ¿Hay algo que necesites?

4 · WHERE: lugares · where for places

🇪🇸 Where se usa para lugares y equivale a «donde / en el que / en la que». Detrás de where va un sujeto + verbo completos: the hotel where we stayed. Como ya incluye la idea de «en», no hace falta añadir ~~in~~ al final.

🇬🇧 Use where for places (= in which / at which). It's followed by subject + verb.

lugar + where + sujeto + verbo

🍽️ That's the restaurant where we had our first date.
→ Ese es el restaurante donde tuvimos nuestra primera cita.

🏡 I'd love to visit the village where my grandparents grew up.
→ Me encantaría visitar el pueblo donde se criaron mis abuelos.

🏋️ Is this the gym where you train?
→ ¿Este es el gimnasio donde entrenas?

5 · WHOSE: posesión · whose for possession

🇪🇸 Whose indica posesión: equivale a «cuyo / cuya / cuyos / cuyas» o a «que tiene…». Sustituye a his, her, its, their. Detrás de whose siempre va un sustantivo: whose dog, whose parents. ¡No lo confundas con ~~who's~~ (= who is)!

🇬🇧 Whose shows possession (= his / her / their) and is always followed by a noun. Don't confuse it with who's (who is).

sustantivo + whose + sustantivo + verbo

✈️ I've got a friend whose dad is a pilot.
→ Tengo un amigo cuyo padre es piloto.

📱 That's the girl whose phone was stolen.
→ Esa es la chica a la que le robaron el móvil.

🏖️ We stayed with a family whose house was next to the beach.
→ Nos quedamos con una familia cuya casa estaba al lado de la playa.

6 · ¿Cuándo se puede quitar? · Leaving out the pronoun

Mira qué viene justo después del relativo. Si viene un sujeto + verbo (I, you, she, my friend…), el relativo es el objeto y se puede quitar: the book (that) I read. Si viene directamente un verbo, el relativo es el sujeto y es obligatorio: the man who lives here. Whose nunca se quita.

If the pronoun is the object (followed by subject + verb), you can leave it out. If it's the subject (followed by a verb), you must keep it.

sustantivo + (that) + sujeto + verbo → se puede quitar

sustantivo + who / that + verbo → obligatorio

The jacket (that) I bought was on sale.
→ La chaqueta que compré estaba rebajada.

The people (who) we met in Rome were really friendly.
→ La gente que conocimos en Roma era muy simpática.

The man who lives upstairs is very noisy. (¡no se quita!)
→ El hombre que vive arriba es muy ruidoso.

La preposición, al final · Prepositions at the end

| Inglés natural · English | Español |
|---|---|
| the girl (who) I was talking to | la chica con la que hablaba |
| the flat (that) I live in | el piso en el que vivo |
| the music (that) she listens to | la música que escucha |
| the friend (who) I went with | el amigo con el que fui |

La preposición, al final · Prepositions at the end (continúa · cont.)

| Inglés natural · English | Español |
|---|---|
| the job (which) he applied for | el trabajo al que se presentó |

En español la preposición va delante («con la que»). En el inglés de todos los días se queda al final, pegada a su verbo.

In everyday English, the preposition goes at the end.

Truco: ¿quién, qué, dónde, de quién? · Quick test

Antes de elegir, pregúntate: ¿quién? → who. ¿qué? → which. ¿dónde? → where. ¿de quién? → whose. Si dudas entre who y which, usa that… ¡pero nunca ~~what~~ detrás de un sustantivo! Y fíjate en el diálogo: who's (= who is) y whose suenan igual, pero no son lo mismo.

Who? → who. What? → which. Where? → where. Whose? → whose. In doubt: that (never what).

My Erasmus year in Dublin

I'm Irene and I'm studying in Dublin this year. I share a flat with three students who come from different countries. The flat (that) we rent is small, but it's in an area where there are lots of cafés and shops.

The person who helped me most at the beginning was Ahmed, the flatmate whose room is next to mine. He showed me the supermarket where you can buy Spanish food and the bus that goes straight to the university.

My favourite place is a small bookshop where they sell second-hand books. The owner is an old man who knows everything about Irish writers. The thing I miss most is my mum's cooking, but the friends I've made here are amazing!
