VOZ PASIVA (BÁSICA)

The passive · present and past simple

📖 Explicación · Explanation | Nivel B1

📖 Explicación · Explanation

Lee cada recuadro despacio. Primero en español, luego en inglés. Read each box slowly: first in Spanish, then in English.

¿Qué es? · What is it?

En la voz activa el sujeto hace la acción: Leo paints the wall. En la voz pasiva el sujeto recibe la acción: The wall is painted. La usamos cuando lo importante es la acción o el objeto, no quién lo hace (porque no lo sabemos, no importa o es obvio). En español solemos decirlo con «se» (se habla inglés, se construyó en 1890), con ser + participio (fue construido) o con un «ellos» impersonal (me robaron la bici).

In the passive, the subject receives the action. We use it when the action or the object is more important than who does it.

Sujeto + be + participio + (by + agente)

¿ACTIVA o PASIVA? · Active or passive?

Elige la pasiva cuando el protagonista es la cosa o la acción. Elige la activa cuando lo importante es la persona que lo hace.

Passive: the thing or the action matters. Active: the person who does it matters.

Activa · importa quién

- My mum made this cake.
- Spain won the match.
- Ana broke the window.

Pasiva · importa qué

- This cake was made with apples.
- The match was played in Seville.
- The window was broken last night.

1 · De activa a pasiva · From active to passive

Para pasar una frase a pasiva: 1) el objeto de la activa pasa a ser el sujeto; 2) ponemos be en el mismo tiempo que el verbo activo; 3) añadimos el participio del verbo principal; 4) si queremos decir quién lo hizo, usamos by.

Active object → passive subject. Then be (same tense) + past participle (+ by + agent).

Activa + Someone + cleans + the room

Pasiva + The room + is cleaned

📺 Millions of people watch the final. → The final is watched by millions of people.
→ Millones de personas ven la final. → La final la ven millones de personas.

From bean to bar: the story of chocolate

Chocolate is made from cacao beans. These beans are grown in hot countries near the equator, like Ivory Coast, Ghana and Ecuador. Most of the world's cacao is produced in West Africa.

Long ago, cacao was used by the Olmecs, the Maya and the Aztecs in Mexico and Central America. It wasn't eaten as a sweet: it was drunk as a bitter drink, often with chilli. In the 16th century, cacao was taken to Spain by Spanish explorers, and sugar was added to make it sweeter.

Today, the beans are picked by hand, dried in the sun and sent to factories. There, they are roasted and ground into a paste. Then milk and sugar are added, and the chocolate is poured into moulds. Millions of tonnes of chocolate are eaten every year!
